RESIDENTIAL HOUSING AT CALU

CALU

These are not your ordinary dorms...

There's no question. Living at Cal U is a lot like living at home. But better.

That's because our student housing is among the best in the nation.

There are no cinderblock walls or long waits for the shower.

There's so much room — and privacy, too.

Loads of amenities

Each residence hall is equipped with a computer lab, community room, TV area with large screen TV and DVD player, a full kitchen, game area and vending machines. There are lounges and study rooms on every floor, along with recycling areas and a laundry room.

Students have the opportunity to live in the state-of-the-art Honors Residence Hall if they desire. The hall provides easy access to the University Honors Program offices, computer labs and study rooms reserved exclusively for honors students. Some residents find they can fully participate in the University Honors Program community by living here, because first-year students live and socialize with honors upperclassmen. But regardless of where they live, all honors students receive the program's many benefits.

Main Campus Suite Life

The six smoke-free, co-ed residence halls located in the heart of Cal U's main campus get high marks from both students and parents. All units are more spacious than the average "dorm room," with air conditioning, carpeting, personal mailboxes, cable TV hookups and free high-speed Internet access. Most students share a bathroom with only one other person, and never more than three others. Each room is furnished with contemporary, moveable furniture, including beds, desks, chairs, nightstands and bookshelves. Many suites include a completely furnished living room area, giving you plenty of room to hang out.

I opened the door and - wow!

South Campus Apartment Living

It's easy to feel at home at Vulcan Village, Cal U's garden-style apartment complex. Located next to Adamson Stadium, just 1.5 miles from main campus, these 10 three-story buildings offer unsurpassed comfort and convenience in an independent setting. Each private, air-conditioned unit features a fully furnished living room, dining room and kitchen, complete with a full-size range, microwave, refrigerator, dishwasher, garbage disposal and full-size washer and dryer. High-speed Internet, telephone and cable connections are provided in each bedroom, and the property has wireless Internet access. In most cases, you may choose your roommate.

Life on the "Hill."

Vulcan Village offers a computer lab with printing capabilities, a fully equipped fitness center, media room, a clubhouse with pool table and foosball table, and a convenience store where you can pick up basic necessities and made-to-order sandwiches. Other amenities include outdoor sand volleyball, wireless Internet, basketball courts and an outdoor swimming pool. When you're ready to head to classes on the main campus, just catch the free shuttle service.

I never thought my first apartment would be this sweet!

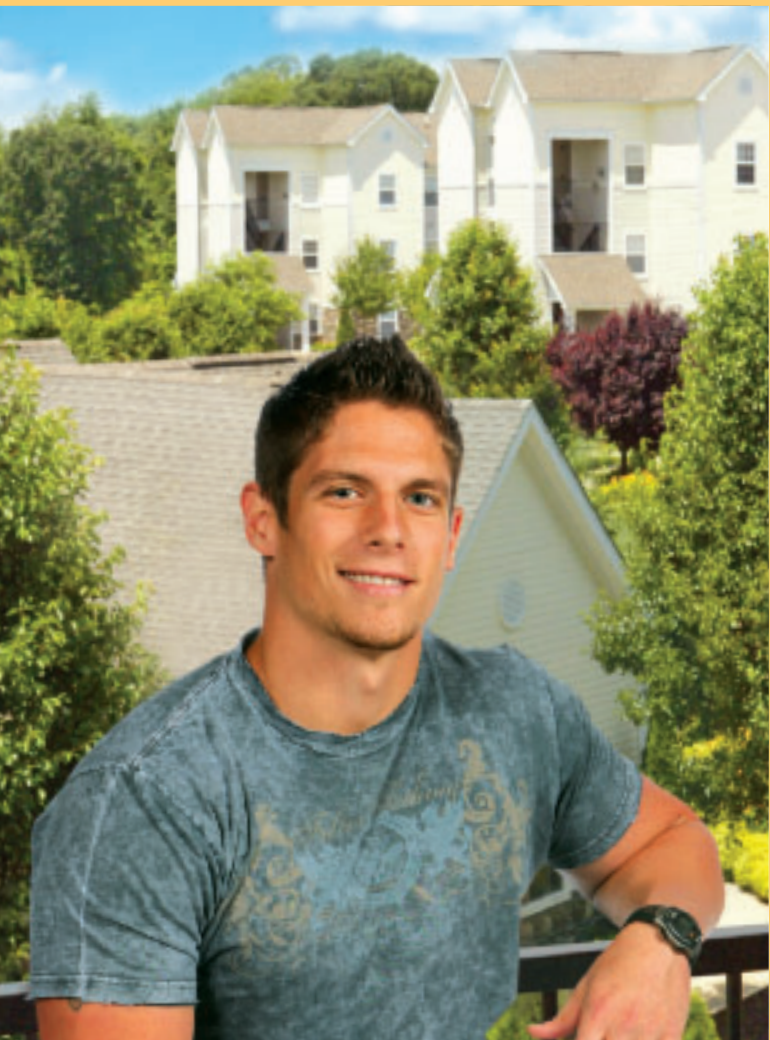

Here to serve you.
A professional manager oversees the staff at Vulcan Village. A live-in assistant manager is available, and community assistants are assigned to aid the residents.

Whether you choose one of the suites in the residence halls on the main campus or the garden-style apartments on the south campus, you'll find everything you need — room to breathe, high-speed Internet and friends. Approximately 1,500 students live in the main campus suites, while another 768 make themselves at home in the Vulcan Village Apartments on the “Hill.”

The best student housing you could imagine is right here!

On-campus housing is not guaranteed for everyone. A majority of on-campus space is reserved for incoming first-year students, who are assigned on a first-come, first-served basis. Each year, a percentage of the space is set aside for upperclassmen. When demand exceeds available space, a lottery is held to determine who can contract for on-campus housing.
