Is My Student In Good Academic Standing?

Students are notified of their academic standing at the end of each academic term. Those who maintain a cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.00 or above have earned Good Academic Standing. Due to the serious consequences that can follow from falling below Good Academic Standing, it is important for students and parents to understand the policies. Learn more Those who maintain a cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.00 or above have earned Good Academic Standing. The Office of Academic Success notifies by letter any student who falls below the required 2.00 GPA. The notification may be one of Academic Warning, Academic Probation, Continuing Academic Probation, or Academic Dismissal. Students are expected to follow the requirements outlined in the letter.

Academic Warning informs a student that the University is aware of his or her academic difficulty, and students are strongly encouraged to seek support. Students on academic warning will be expected to participate in Academic Healthy U and other services offered by the Office of Academic Success. If a student’s grades do not improve the following semester, a student may be placed on academic probation.

Academic Probation is an indication that the University has ongoing concerns about a student’s academic progress. Academic probation takes place when a student’s cumulative GPA falls below a 2.00 for the second consecutive semester. Students on academic probation are expected to participate in the Probationary Assistance (PASS) Program and other services offered by the Office of Academic Success. Academic probation offers students support, but also has academic stipulations. If a student does not meet the prescribed stipulations, the student risks being dismissed from the University.

Continuing Academic Probation occurs when a student who is on academic probation with a cumulative GPA below 2.00, earns a semester GPA of at least 2.00. A student will remain on continuing probation until either the cumulative average reaches 2.00 or higher or they earn a semester average of less than 2.00, at which time they are dismissed for academic reasons.

Academic Dismissal The University reserves the right to refuse the privilege of further attendance to a student who has failed to meet minimum academic requirements. If a student’s cumulative GPA remains below the required 2.00 minimum after a probationary period, the semester GPA during a probationary semester is below 2.00, and the student fails to meet other requirements, he or she will be dismissed from the University.